

Queue

There is a string. Select the first character of the string and place it at the end of the string.

As you are placing character one by one find out what the string will be after N steps.

Consider the String as a queue. In a step, dequeue the character from the front and enqueue it at the end. Repeat this process N times.